Hall of Languages

Owner: Syracuse University
Jack Osinski, Project Manager

Architect: Holmes King Kallquist & Associates
Jackie Goodwin, Lead Architect

The Hall of Languages is the oldest building on the Syracuse University Campus, whose prominent location marks the entrance to the Syracuse University Quad, containing several classrooms and offices for various departments, including Philosophy, Religion, English, & Textual Studies.

John Miller Jr. (Jay) acted as the field foreman, overseeing the removal of asbestos containing roofing materials and existing built-up roofs, replacing these flat roof areas with a Siplast Granulated 30 Year Roof System, removing asphalt shingles on all perimeter walls and tower roofs, replacing rotted wood decking, and replacing these areas with multi-colored slate, intricately patterned, and installing new copper barrel vault roofs and relining the gutters.

In addition to Mr. Miller's roofing skills he acted as project manager, attending job meetings and assuring the safety and comfort of all students and employees of Syracuse University throughout this 3 month project.

This project was on a strict timeline and required 100% completion prior to 15 August 2008. Thanks to Jay, Diamond Roofing Co., Inc. was successful in meeting this deadline, providing Syracuse University officials with great satisfaction.
